Have you ever eaten sushi and thought it would be too hard to make? Well, think again! This vegetarian sushi is surprisingly easy and absolutely delicious.

- 1 Place rice and water in a large saucepan. Bring to boil, then reduce heat to low, cover with tight fitting lid and cook for 10 minutes. Place rice, extra water, vinegar and sugar in a bowl and mix well.
- 2 Place nori sheet onto a bamboo sushi mat. Spread 1/5 warm rice over nori sheet. Layer cucumber, carrot, avocado and cheese or soy slices at narrow end, and roll up from narrow end using the sushi mat.
- 3 Repeat process with remaining ingredients to make five rolls. Cut each roll into eight rounds. Arrange on a serving platter and serve with salt reduced soy sauce. Makes 40.

Client View

GE Security Pty Ltd

When Lori Rennie needed to update her company's literature, she didn't have to go in search of the best team for the job – she already had them on file.

As the Purchasing Officer for GE Security Melbourne, it fell to Lori to have new versions of the product manuals and installation instructions for their various security and fire products produced. Lucky for her, she knew exactly where to go.

"Our Purchasing Manager, who used to order all of the manuals before me, recommended Kwik Kopy," Lori explains of her introduction to the team at Kwik Kopy Ringwood. And she couldn't be happier with the results.

"Their service is outstanding, a very friendly customer service team. They're always quick to quote on jobs with a very quick turnaround for delivery – some times that same day," Lori says.

Kwik Kopy Ringwood, like all of our Kwik Kopy centres, keep clients' artwork on file so that in the event of an emergency print job or just a second run of printing, they are able to provide for the clients' needs ASAP.

This attention to the clients' needs, and ultimately satisfaction, is no doubt one of the reasons that Kwik Kopy Ringwood was recently named Victorian Franchisee of the year at the MYOB Excellence in Franchising (Regional) Awards held by the Franchise Council of Australia. Endorsements by satisfied clients, like Lori ("I would definitely recommend Kwik Kopy") and GE Security, play a huge part in that continued success, because it is the client who comes first at Kwik Kopy.

The gift of giving back

In the holiday season, it is always better to give than to receive. It's even better if you can give back in a more meaningful way, so why not volunteer your time to a charitable cause?

It is during this time of year that many charitable and not-for-profit organisations experience an increased demand for their services. And with limited reserves of both money and people, they can only do so much. Volunteers are always welcomed by such organisations, whether it is just an hour a week or a more substantial time commitment – no effort is too small.

Whether it be a larger organisation such as The Smith Family or Mission Australia, or something smaller, like your local church or soup kitchen, there are many places requiring volunteers. And while some charities may require a certain skills set, notably when dealing directly with the homeless, elderly or children, most will welcome an extra pair of helping hands.

GoVolunteer, Australia's first national volunteer recruitment website, provides volunteers with all the information they need about possible volunteer positions, matching their skills set to appropriate placements. Operating for nearly 10 years, this joint initiative of Volunteering Australia, SEEK Communications and the Boston Consulting Group, is an ideal portal to find out what positions may be available near you to suit your needs.

Volunteering NSW is the peak body for these services in New South Wales and Odessa O'Brien, Volunteer Services Manager and Corporate Volunteering Manager, says her organization is happy to receive calls from people interested in volunteering.

"Volunteering helps build the social fabric and social cohesion,"

"Give us a call. All of our operators are volunteers and we seek to put you in touch with suitable not-for-profit organizations based on your skills, the time you have available and where you are located," Ms O'Brien explains. "Then it is your choice to accept the referral, make contact with the organization and arrange an induction."

The growing trend in corporate responsibility may also be an avenue for you or your business to explore. Basically, companies sponsor their employees to perform one day of volunteer work a year. Just imagine if every company that could afford to do so actually participated in this scheme! There are many groups and events that have specific days that would be ideal for this option.

"Volunteering helps build the social fabric and social cohesion," says Ms O'Brien. "You're helping the community and making a difference."
